Summary

Neuroscience is part of our care practices but also in the way we train learners. It is with this in mind that since 2012 we have organized events on this theme. Last year a link between microbiota and neuroscience was proposed. This year we took the breath and following the Traditional Medicines Chinese and Japanese the energy link between intestines and lungs. The disciplines proposed in a global vision will be Kampo Japanese medicine, sport and relaxation, environment, cardiac coherence, quantum, nutrition, and of course neuroscience, all in connection with psTN Traditional and Natural Care Practices® which we have been advocating in our organization for more than 10 years. In this pre-winter period, traditional and natural care protocols will be offered to you, with mutual respect between doctors and non-doctors. We will present the validated training programmes and the list of learners who have taken this accredited and labelled course, following the European recommendations.
